BEWARE OF “UNSTABLE” STABLE BELTS

Of recent months, we have been receiving stable belts in various stages of poor workmanship from end-users who erroneously believed that they were supplied by us. These belts on investigation were not of our manufacture. Our belts are made to MoD specifications with metal furniture where relevant, leather strap-ware and webbing materials of the highest order.

We list a number of examples which we found to be of poor and unacceptable quality:

- Faulty stitching (threads pulling away).
- Leather strap ends broken, snapping (due to poor quality of leather being used).
- The webbing is very soft on imported belts. (folds over very easily) leading to rapid wear and tear.

Further enquiries show that these belts were supplied as “regulation” pattern but sub-standard. The selling price is considerably cheaper than our own. They appear to be typical of merchandise that we have encountered in the past and are cheap imitation imports. Please note the following:

- Our officially approved stable belts are of 100% British origin.
- They are made to MoD specification pattern number D01074(SBS) which in keeping with the Royal Navy and the Royal Marines are government issue. Other Armed Forces stable belts are not government issued but purchased by private funding.
- The leather component is sourced from one of the UK’s oldest tanners using finest English leather with vegetable tanning, organically produced.
- The webbing is produced in the UK to MoD specification.
- The construction of the completed belts are hand-cut and stitched by skilled workers from a company that has been producing stable belts for the British military since 1850.
- Our stable belts are inspected and on passing inspection are now affixed with our own branded labels (see enclosed) as proof of the genuine article.

Our simple request is that “BUYERS BEWARE”! We will always provide products of the finest quality to match our Group motto of “SERVICE TO SERVICE”.
